SEMINAR

The Ethics of Storytelling in the Digital Age
The digital revolution has challenged the very idea of truth. This segment explores the ethics of storytelling, examining how technology influences authenticity, authority, and contested narratives online. We will debate the rise of algorithmic bias and "fake news," and define the crucial responsibility of the modern storyteller in the 21st century. Join us to navigate the moral complexity of narrative creation.

Why Shakespeare Still Matters?
Four centuries later, why does Shakespeare still resonate? This session celebrates the enduring power of the Bard. We will analyze his mastery of language and his boundless imagination, which created characters that mirror our deepest selves. Discover how Shakespeare's works offer timeless insights into human nature—love, ambition, and mortality—proving his indispensable relevance to the modern world.
